Bloomfield Lodge announced as finalist in 2015 Conde Nast Johansens Readers Award

Bloomfield Lodge nestled deep in the Daintree Rainforest, in Tropical North Queensland was a finalist of the 2015 Condé Nast Johansens Award for Excellence in the Readers Award Category, Bloomfield Lodge was the only Australian hotel to have made the final selection.

Created to acknowledge, reward and celebrate excellence across the recommended properties in the Condé Nast Johansens guides, the awards are a trusted mark of quality recognised by consumers and travel professionals alike. The prestigious awards are based on responses from guest nomination forms, guest surveys and regional inspector reports. The Readers' Award specifically focuses on the guest feedback and online voting where service, location, hotel facilities and uniqueness are all taken into account.

Commenting on the award, hotel owner Mike Gooley said, "We are absolutely delighted to be a finalist in the Readers Award and place a high value on the recognition received from our guests and Conde Nast Johansens. It is a great tribute to the hard work and dedication of our staff.
